Human Right #24:
The Right to Play

The United Nations Convention on the Rights of the Child creates a specific right for all children to have rest and leisure, to engage in play and activities appropriate to their age and to participate freely in life and the arts.

HOW WE PLAY

Different types of play give children the opportunity to learn different things. Inside the classroom, games help children to actively engage in their lessons, enhancing their learning. Outside of the classroom, they play through performance, music or dance to gain critical life skills.

Right to play

Every child has the right to learn and play.

Play

Every child has a right to have time and somewhere safe to play. All children should be allowed to have privacy if they want to spend some time on their own

- ▶ Right To Play empowers children to rise above these challenges and find their way back to hope.
